

Media Coverage & References

Redfern Media

Last updated: August 12, 2026

Redfern Media and its founder, Draye Redfern, have been referenced or profiled in third-party publications. The references below identify editorial coverage or mentions and are provided for informational purposes. Publication names and trademarks belong to their respective owners. Their inclusion does not imply sponsorship, affiliation, approval, or endorsement of Redfern Media, its services, or its personnel.

About the references: Some coverage concerns Draye Redfern personally or discusses his work and methods. It should not be read as an editorial endorsement of Redfern Media.

Verified Media Coverage

Inc. — September 23, 2017

“This Entrepreneur Has a Brilliant System for Retaining Existing Clients” was published by Inc.com and profiles Draye Redfern and his approach to client retention and “Tangible Nurture.”

Source: Inc.com, Benjamin P. Hardy, September 23, 2017

Forbes — December 16, 2017

“How One Connection Could Change Your Life (In Less Than 90 Days)” was published on Forbes.com and describes the author’s experience working with Draye Redfern, including Redfern’s role in helping develop and market an online course and related business systems.

Source: Forbes.com, Benjamin P. Hardy, December 16, 2017

Use of Publication Names and Marks

References to publications on this website are descriptive only. Redfern Media does not claim that any publication, network, media organization, journalist, or contributor sponsors, endorses, certifies, or is affiliated with Redfern Media unless expressly stated otherwise in writing by that organization.

Coverage May Relate to Our Founder

Where a publication mentions or profiles Draye Redfern rather than Redfern Media as a company, Redfern Media describes that coverage as a mention or profile of its founder. We do not represent founder coverage as an independent review or endorsement of Redfern Media.

Questions about a media reference? Contact Redfern Media at support@redfernmedia.com or (512) 768-9779.